- Rewards are distributed by Tiger Brokers directly to the user's account.
- Stock/fund rewards will be issued to the user's account holdings in the form of a specified number of shares. If the client receives fractional share rewards based on face value, the system will convert yesterday's closing price at the time of stock distribution into the number of stocks and distribute them to the client's account holdings. If the client receives fund rewards based on amount, Tiger Brokers will determine the number of shares awarded based on the latest NAV when issuing the funds (which may be yesterday's closing price or the closing price of two days ago), subjected to Tiger Brokers' discretion.
- If the user obtains a reward that needs to meet the activation conditions, the specified conditions need to be met within the validity period, otherwise the reward will become invalid.
